Chapter 1 -- Minimum Attendance for Exam Eligibility

1.1 A student must maintain at least 75% attendance in a registered course to be eligible to sit that course's end-semester examination.

1.2 Older source material describes a sliding scale linking specific attendance-percentage bands to an attendance component of internal marks -- for example, 100-95% attendance mapped to 5 marks, 95-90% to 4 marks, and so on, reducing by 1 mark per band down to the 75% eligibility floor. Whether this sliding scale still applies in its original form, has been replaced with different figures, or has been dropped entirely is not confirmed by the source material available to this corpus.
